Drop Zone, created by Archer Maclean, was one of the earliest video games. Set in the late 21st Century, many human lives are extinguished as a result of the robot wars. However, the survivors build a star cruiser (called a Tacheon), which is powered by rare Ionian crystals. The crystals are situated across the planet IO (Jupiter's second inner most moon) and must be collected by you to keep the star cruiser on the move. As controller, you must also rescue free-roaming scientists before the aliens get to them.

Drop Zone is similar to another '80's title, Defender. As far as shoot-em-ups go, the basic gameplay is better than anything on the market today. You control a lone jet-packed spaceman, travelling across IO horizontally at a fast and frantic pace. Numerous different waves of aliens appear on the screen which must be destroyed using a pulse laser. Strata bombs are also at your disposal to destroy all aliens, apart from Androids.

Each man must be collected in turn and returned to the landing pad at moonbase. A counter screen indicates how many men need to be rescued and how many have already been dropped off. Once the rescue is complete and the planters, spoilers and blunder storms are destroyed, you'll proceed to the next attack wave; there are 100 levels or waves in total.

Added protection against the aliens is supplied by a few seconds of cloak power or force shield. Once activated, a warning signal is sounded three seconds before it runs out. A bonus life, one strata bomb and seven seconds of cloak power are awarded after every 10,000 points scored.

The graphics in Drop Zone are rather primitive. However, a huge plus is its immediate playability. Trouble is, a few spare minutes of gameplay can turn into hours! - DG

game type: PLATFORM
1-2 PLAYERS

Known previously as Sink or Swim, S.S. Lucifer was first released on the Amiga. The idea behind this Mega Drive release is that a ship called the S.S. Lucifer has been damaged by an iceberg off the coast of Greenland. A hume named Kevin decides to set off from his Sea Rescue Station in a bid to save the ship, cargo and Dim passengers.

The gameplay is very similar to the Lemmings titles. You control Kevin and attempt to rescue passengers on each of the 100 levels by guiding them to an Escape Hatch. Each level contains various objects to obstruct your progress, including rapidly rising water, blazing fire and very dangerous spikes.

The Dim passengers are thus called because they keep walking until they meet an obstacle, be it a pair of ladders or some rather deadly flames! They can however be guided in the right direction by using conveyor belts and by pressing switches to create temporary platforms. Kevin is also equipped with bombs to dispose of obstacles such as crates or doors. On levels where the water rises, Kevin has the opportunity to save the passengers from drowning by inflating a rubber dingy; the Dim passengers automatically climb into the dingy as it touches them, but you still need a certain amount of luck as they have to grab onto a ladder in order to reach the Escape Hatch.

The amount of rescued Dim passengers needed to proceed varies from level to level. Most levels have around three to six passengers, allowing you to lose one or two. A password is given every few levels, enabling you to return to the same level later. S.S. Lucifer has a great addictive quality, nice graphics and parallax scrolling included in many of the levels. One snag is that it's too easy for the more experienced gamer, but with 100 levels it will still take some time to get through. It's certainly a game worth playing until completion. - DG

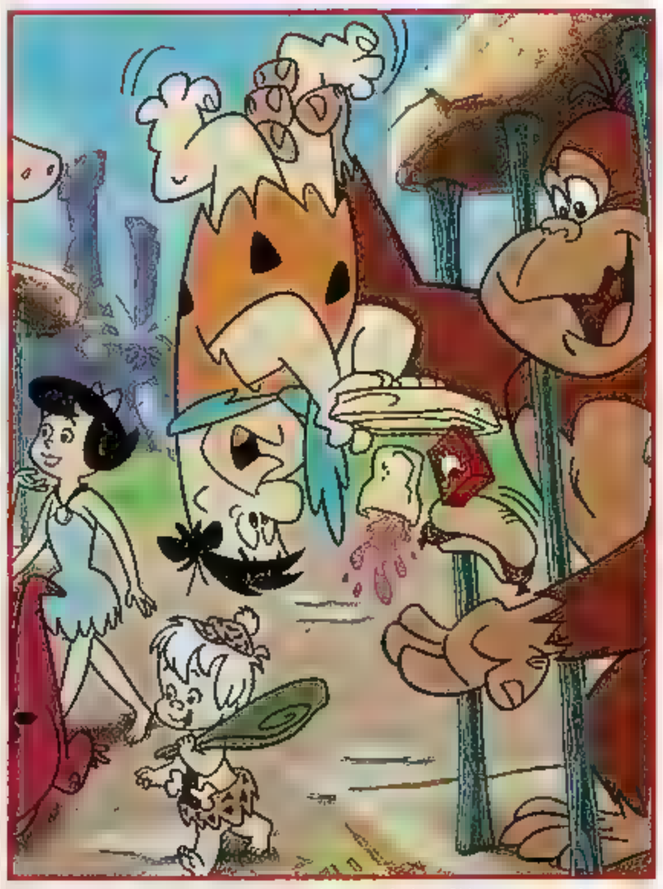
SONY'S MOVIE MANIA

FOUR FILMS FEATURE IN SONY'S LINE-UP

Sony Electronic Publishing has announced a quartet of film tie-ins for release between now and the middle of next year:

• 3 Ninjas Kick Back - a mix of combat, stealth and strategy inspired by the (allegedly) 'hilarious' film of the same name (due out this Christmas). Help three young ninjas to protect their grandfather on his journey to Japan. Baddies such as ninjas, samurai warriors and Sumo wrestlers are out in force. 3 Ninjas Kick Back (the game) is due for release next month on the Mega Drive and Mega-CD, priced at £39.99 each.



More Flintstone fun found in Fleetway's monthly comic.

• The Flintstones need no introduction, but it's worth mentioning that Fred's platform pranks are shaping up for a December release on the Mega Drive, at a price of £39.99.

• Addams Family Values is the third Addams Family game but only the second to be based on a film (Pugsley's Scavenger Hunt was inspired by the animation). Can Uncle Fester, armed with an electric zapper and a handful of Morticia's spells, rescue baby Addams from the maniacal baby-sitter? The action is far more puzzle-intensive than previous outings. Addams Family Values will be available for the Mega Drive in early 1995 (but - you guessed it - there's no price yet).

• Mary Shelley's classic novel Frankenstein has been re-made as a film once again, this time by Kenneth Brannagh and with Robert De Niro starring as the monster. Surprisingly, in the video game you don't play the Baron in search of parts, but the monster, lumbering through six levels to discover its unpleasant origins. Frankenstein is out in Mega Drive and Mega-CD versions in the first half of 1995. No prices as yet.

JUST CAN'T WAIT FOR THE KING?

THE WAIT FOR VIRGIN'S GAME IS NEARLY OVER!

The entire gang from the film, The Lion King.

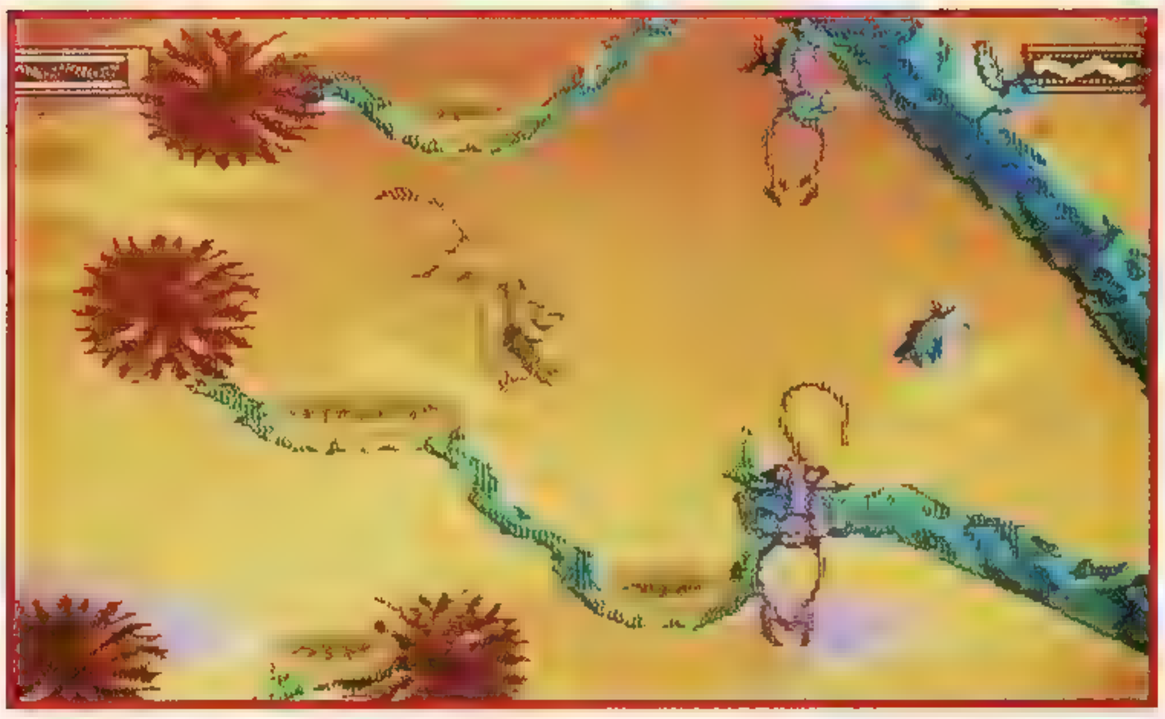
The game version of Disney's latest animated feature film, The Lion King, is now ready for release on the three main Sega systems courtesy of Virgin. More details of the game have emerged since its last mention in STC (News Zone, 34).

You get to control our four-legged hero, Simba, the lion cub. There are 10 levels in all - the ultimate leading to Simba becoming a full-grown lion with new abilities and a final confrontation with the evil Scar.

Young Simba - who just can't wait to be king?



Young Simba monkeying around on the Mega Drive.

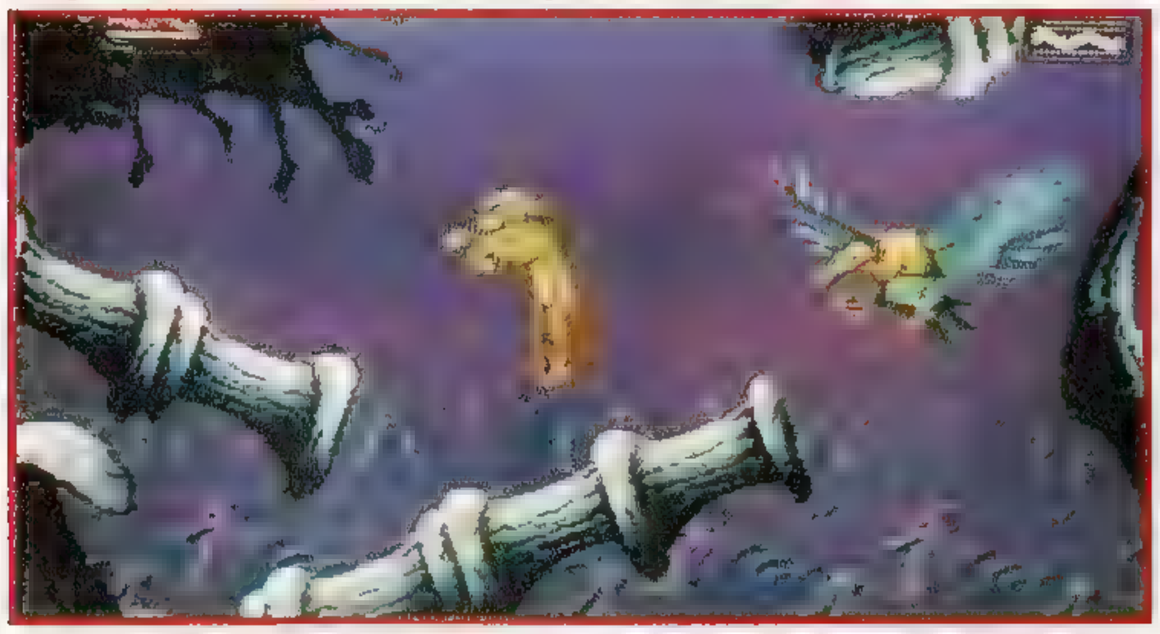
Bonus stages put you in command of the wart hog Pumbaa and the meerkat Timon.

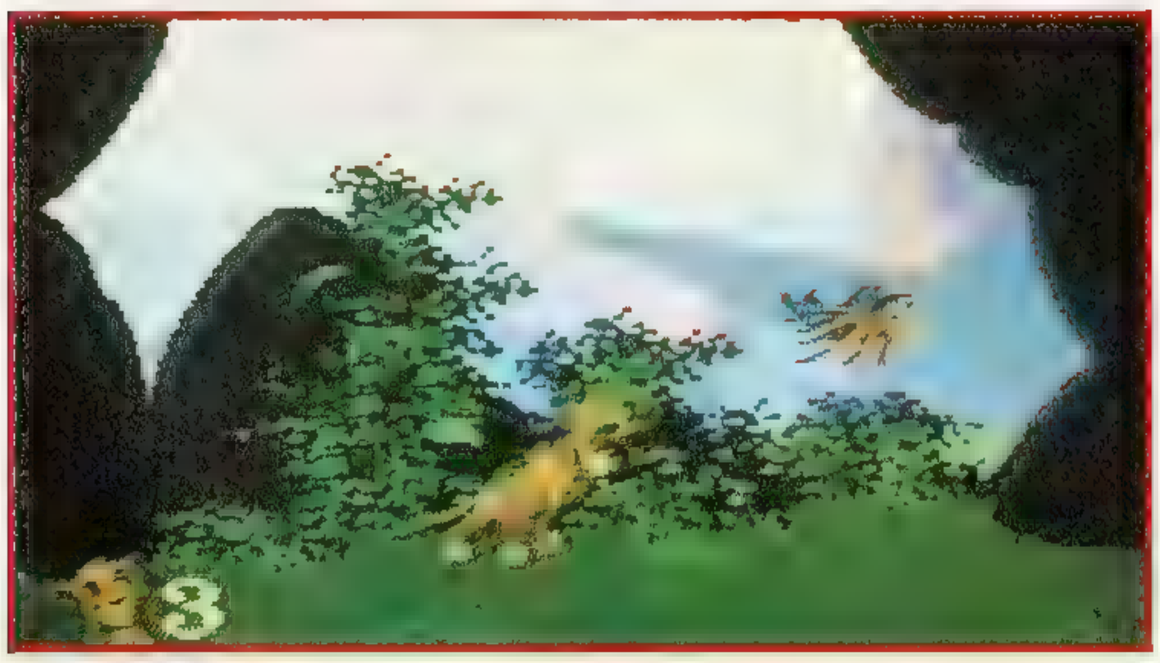
This platform-heavy adventure has been put together by Westwood Studios (the American team behind Dune: The Battle Of Arrakis for the Mega Drive) with the considerable help of Disney's talented team of animators (providing some 2,000 new frames specially for the game).

The 24MB cart also features an adaptation of the film's hit musical score by Elton John and Tim Rice.

The Lion King film, already showing country-wide, is reckoned to be the sixth most successful film (of any kind) ever made. The game, however, won't be out until next month - but will be worth the wait. It will be available for the Mega Drive, Game Gear and Master System.

Danger lurks in every level for Young Simba.





Young Simba - roar of the wild one.

SHORT BURSTS

BEETHOVEN'S BARKING FUN

That big, cuddly (bleurgh!) dog Beethoven will be searching for his missing pups on your Mega Drive from February of next year. Hi Tech Entertainment's Beethoven The 2nd: The Quest For The Missing Pups is - surprise - based on the film of the same name (out now on video, in case you were curious).

FIGHTIN' TALK

Double Dragon V: The Shadow Falls is released on the Mega Drive this Christmas at a price to be announced. Unlike the three previous Double Dragon releases (the first two were never seen on the Sega systems), this fifth incarnation (don't ask about the fourth) is not a scrolling Streets Of Rage style event, but a one-on-one combat simulation. There are eight characters with different attributes and special attacks, and a host of options ice the cake, so to speak. The question is, can it stand up to the heavyweights, Super Street Fighter II and Mortal Kombat II?

ANOTHER MEGA-BLAST?

The run 'n' jump 'n' blast action of Turrican (plus two sequels) has proved a big hit on the Amiga over the past five years. In Mega Turrican, the hard-man hero in an assault suit (complete with laser gun and grappling hook) has been beefed-up for his new appearance on the Mega Drive. There are five worlds, each with three levels, plenty of power-ups and a final fight with the Alien Queen to keep you on your toes. Mega Turrican will be available next month, price £39.99.

BIG, BAD BATTLETECH

Take control of a VERY heavily armed assault walker (complete with cannons, lasers and missiles) in Battletech for the Mega Drive. A fierce future battleground features 25 missions spread across five different war zones full of power supplies, aircraft hangars, radar bases and enemy troopers to destroy. Battletech's out on the Mega Drive at the end of this year.

Tips & Cheats

FIFA SOCCER

MCD

The CD version of FIFA Soccer featured some great animation sequences and a tour of Wembley Stadium. If you're looking to spice up the game then take a look at these codes:-

Enter the options screen and use the A, B and C buttons on your joypad to enter the code.

CHEAT	JOYPAD BUTTONS
Dream Team	AA BB CC AA
Super Keeper	BA BB BB BB BB
Crazy Ball	CA BC CB AC
Super Goalie	AA AA BB BB
Invisible Wall	CC CB AA AB

ALADDIN

MS GG

This magical game from Virgin has left Boomers around the globe spellbound with its stunning graphics. Although the Mega Drive game was superior, the Master System/Game Gear versions were still impressive. Fancy a level warp cheat? Thought you might:-

To warp to any level just enter the code, then confirm it with button 1 (if you use button 2 it won't work).

LEVEL	CODE
1	AJGJ
2	LAEA
3	ASNF
4	DMIA
5	INSI
6	NEUA

PETE SAMPRAS TENNIS

With Wimbledon well and truly over, what better way to enjoy tennis again than to battle it out with your pals on the Mega Drive. The world's top player, Pete Sampras, has endorsed this, in my opinion the best tennis game ever. The cart even features a built-in 4-player adaptor called the J-Cart. Here's some cheats and help for all you tennis fans:-

TOP SHOTS

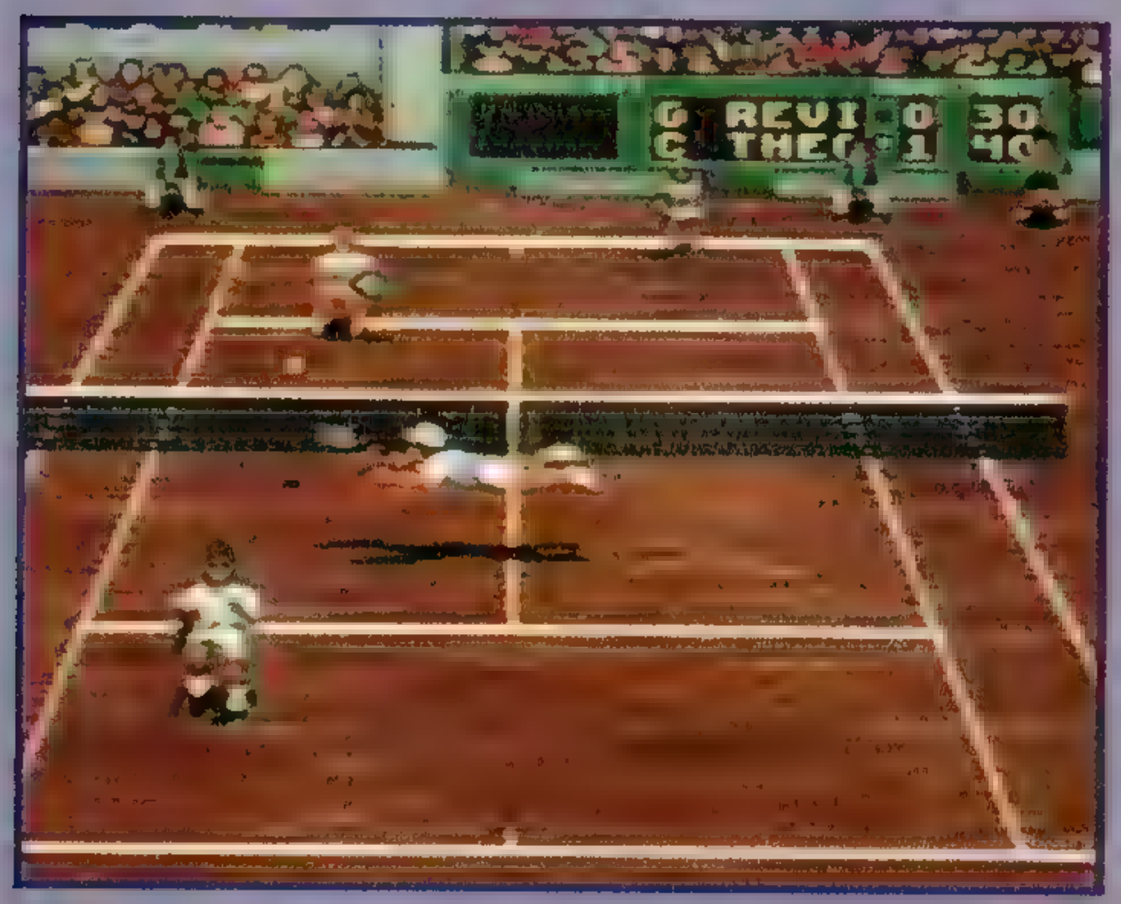
To get the best out of this fab game and to enable you to beat your opponent with ease, make sure you know how to produce the following top shots:-

POWER SWERVE - Hit the B-button, press and hold the D-Pad in the direction of your opponent, and press B again to hit the ball.

DROP SHOT - Press the joypad away from your opponent as you hit the ball to perform a drop shot. The longer you hold it the more it'll drop. Make sure you get it over the net, though!

SMASH - Move in close to the net. Wait until the ball is lobbed above your head and press the B button on the joy pad. Add extra power by pushing the joy pad towards your opponent at the same time.

TOP SPIN - This difficult shot is very effective, especially on the grass court. However, it has a tendency to hit the net if performed when the ball is too low. Press the C button on its own for a top spin shot.



MICRO MACHINES

The mega-selling Micro Machines still has everyone glued to their screens, even though the game was launched during 1993.

Micro Machines on Mega Drive

The playability is almost as addictive as Sonic 3. However, a secret game is hidden away but you'll need two Game Gears plus two copies of the game. A tall order but read on for more info

If you're able to get your hands on the above items, prepare to play the free and fairly playable Jon's Squinky Tennis! First, link up both handhelds and place a cart in either machine. As soon as the Absolutely Brilliant logo appears, hold down Start, 1 and 2 on both handhelds simultaneously. If all goes well, you should now be playing the freebie tennis game. Incidentally, if you're after extra speed in a single-player game, then reverse over the finishing line in the qualifying race (this will work on every circuit except Desktop Drop Off).

Critical Eye

Dear STC,

I have one complaint about your magazine ... during the last Eternal Champions series, the characters travelled to the Cyber-dome and captured a gun which RAX clearly stated "will rip through six-inch steel plate like butter." Later on, when they battled Nakano, Trident complained about the gun and Nakano stated that his craft had only 5cm armour. Yet the gun couldn't pierce the armour. Now, is it just me or have you made a mistake?

Stephen White, Purley, Surrey. GG owner.
Sonic Water Fun Game Winner.

Good try, Step. What you (and Trident) failed to notice was that Nakano's craft was made out of 5cm Adamantium armour - a metal far more superior in strength to steel plate. Didn't fool me!

Mug Shot

Dear STC,

While I was on holiday with my parents we stopped off at a service station where I decided to have my photo taken. The machine had a screen showing various famous faces allowing me to choose who I wanted to be photographed with. What I want to know is where was Sonic? I had to settle for Madonna instead!

Anon, Torquay, Devon, MD owner.

A lot of famous humes have said that, Anon.

Brassed Off

Dear STC,

I'm disgusted with the Back Issue Zone. I missed STC 15 — but when I realised I had to purchase four issues (minimum order price £4.40) in order to get the ONE issue I want — well, it's a con!

Carl Allum, Basildon, Essex. MD owner.

The inventor of this idea was probably lost in the backward zone! Ever considered subscribing, Carl?
